

The Interior Journal.

STANFORD, KY.

Friday Morning, May 7, 1880.

W. P. WALTON, Editor.

The Louisville Evening Post of the 1st inst. has an article devoted to Mr. Watterson, of the Courier-Journal, which is decidedly spicy. It shows the ways of the would-be leader of the Democratic party to have been most ridiculously crooked—too crooked to leave him with any character as a Democrat, much less authority to advise and direct the course to be pursued by the party in reference to any matter whatever. No reader of the C-J. can have failed to notice the inconsistencies of its course—the reckless imprudence with which it has leaped from side to side of nearly every issue which it has attempted to discuss; but the array of its self-contradictions and self-stultifications presented in the Post's article will surprise the C-J.'s most constant readers, though every one will readily recognize and remember each article from which extracts are given. There is one allegation made by the Post, however, which, if sustained, it seems to us, ought to be fatal to the standing of Watterson as a Democrat—ought, in fact, to excommunicate him. We refer to the charge made upon the authority of Judge Martindale, of Indianapolis, that Watterson declared it to be the intention of the C-J. to support Grant in the event of the defeat of Tilden in the Cincinnati Convention.

To this charge Watterson has not yet responded, though several days have elapsed since its publication. He had better answer if he can. The charge is too grave to be ignored; indeed its ignoring will not be tolerated by Democrats. On the contrary, Watterson's silence in regard to it, if maintained, will be construed as a confession. "Waltz up" to it, Mr. Watterson, and take care that you don't suffer damage by delay in doing so.

The other day the Louisville Evening Post made some allusions to the United States Marshals, to which Gen. Tom Taylor, an employee of the Marshall, took offense. He walked off on his ear to the office of the Post and demanded of Mr. E. F. Madden both an explanation and an apology, threatening if they were refused that he would thrash the young man. Madden, who does not scare worth a cent, calmly drew a pistol and putting it in the General's face, remarked in his politest manner: "Leave, or you will not be able to waddle out." It is hardly necessary to add that a very nimble waddle followed, accompanied by a loud call for the police, who refused to arrest Madden. Taylor afterwards expressed his regrets for acting so hastily.

As the meeting of the Press Association is at a time when, in most probability, we will have to stay at home, we desire to put in nomination for poetess, at this early date, the name of Mrs. Eugenia Dunlap Potts, of the Lancaster Enterprise. Connected directly with the press of the State, for which she wields a graceful pen, and being possessed of a poetic genius of remarkable brightness and adaptability, we are confident that our brethren will appreciate the suggestion and bestow the compliment on such a worthy sister.

The news comes from New York that prominent members of Tammany have privately said that they will follow John Kelly's lead in the fight against Tilden in the Cincinnati Convention, but will support the national ticket whether Mr. Tilden is at its head or not. They further say that in the event that Kelly should attempt to lead a bolt against the national ticket, he will be promptly expelled from Tammany Hall. This is emphatically not a year for bolters.

The Chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee of the Eighth District tips his old worn out slouch and reverentially bows his thanks to Emmett Logan of the Bowling Green Intelligencer for very complimentary allusions. To say the pleasantest things, in the most graceful manner, at the most appropriate time, is not the gift of every man, nor of any single man so great as the noble managing editor of the Intelligencer, whose heart is as large as his body is long.

HAYES, acting President of the United States by virtue of the great fraud ever attempted on the American people, has vetoed the immediate appropriation bill because it has a clause in reference to the appointment of Deputy Marshals by the Judges of Federal Courts. He evidently intends that if the next Presidential election is not carried by the Republicans it will not be because there are not enough marshals to force a fraud.

The editor of the Tribune invites us to Danville to drink soda water with him. We are obliged, but will not accept the invitation for fear he might inveigle us into taking some thing stronger. The numerous meaningless paragraphs that appear in the Tribune indicate pretty strongly that the writer looks entirely too often "upon the wine while it is red," and we have no inclination to encourage him in such action.

The Courier-Journal says that Tilden could have forced instructions for him at both the New York and Pennsylvania Conventions, "but for the sake of harmony, peace and victory, he forbore his own advantage." The C-J. ought to learn a lesson from this, and for the sake of harmony, peace and so forth forbear from attempting to force instructions in this State. It must end in ignominious failure, for the hand-writing is on the wall, indicating clearly that Kentucky's delegation will go to the Cincinnati Convention free and untrammelled, to choose from the best and most available material that will be presented to that Convention.

The New York Tribune has a special to the effect that Grant has written his friends at Philadelphia that he will in no event allow his name to go before the Chicago Convention, having fully determined not to become a candidate for the Presidency. This, of course, is a bluff. Grant is a candidate, and will be the Republican nominee. And if defeated, as he will be, will call upon his man, Hayes, to return his favor by centering the army at Washington, and, by threats and menaces, attempt to intimidate the Democrats to submit to another "cheat and swindle commission."

SECRETARY of State Churchill has resigned, and it is said that the Governor will appoint his brother, Jim Blackburn, to the position. Jim is the man that should have had it all the time. To be sure Churchill is a kinsman, but a public officer should make it a point to provide for his immediate kin first, and after that he can see to "his cousins and his aunts."

The Indianapolis News calls Gen. Grant a "soldier of fortune." We should think he ought to be after serving eight years as President of the United States at $50,000 per year and "found," besides taking presents from his corrupt friends to almost the same amount. It is his own fault if he is not a "soldier of fortune."

The cowardly, policy-seeking, time-servers of the Senate voted on Tuesday, 17 to 14, to indefinitely postpone the whipping post bill, when it came up on a motion to reconsider the former action. May the fourteen never see the inside of the capital again, nor ever be elevated to any post either of honor or profit.

HON. PHIL B. THOMPSON, JR., presided over the House of Representatives, a few days ago, with marked ability, being called to the chair by Speaker Randall. He is, perhaps, the youngest member ever so honored, a fact which goes to prove the high esteem in which he is held in Congress.

The State news column of the Courier-Journal is decidedly a poor excuse except when it is taken bodily from the Bowling Green Intelligencer. The C-J. will never look again upon Emmett Logan's like as a compiler of that formerly most interesting column.

FRENCH TITONS, finding the crooked old spire of the Court-house a rather dangerous thing to lean against, have been disengaged with Lexington and returned to Richmond. The Transcript's loss is the Register's gain.

The corruptionists and spoil seekers are to a man for Grant. They know his record as a friend to their ilk, and would see the country go into anarchy rather than that their favorite should fail of election.

The Lebanon Times "nails to its masthead" the names of Field and English for President and Vice-President of the United States. It is a tip-top ticket, and one which we believe could easily win.

LATEST advices are to the effect that Ohio would instruct for Thurman, though it was the opinion of some that Tilden and Payne would be the choice.

WHEN you ask an editor a question always prefix it with, "Editors know everything." It is so fresh and it kinder gives him confidence as it were.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS.
(Special Telegram to the Interior Journal.)
FRANKFORD, May 6.—The Legislature adjourned sine die at noon. The bill to prevent newspapers from publishing lottery schemes failed. C. H. ROCHSTER.

One of the closing acts of the Legislature was to allow negroes to serve on juries. A bill limiting the expense of funerals of insolvents to $25, passed the Senate by a vote of 14 to 12.

The bill granting the Trustees of Stanford the right to subscribe an additional $500 to the town Hall Company, passed both Houses the same day it was presented.

A bill to cancel $13,000 due the State by the late Lessee of the Penitentiary, has, in consideration of the release of the State from all claims by the South heirs, passed both Houses.

The Legislature has passed the Penitentiary bill changing the system to the Warden plan, and Col. W. S. Stone, the Speaker of the Grange Legislature, has been elected Warden.

The Legislature adjourned yesterday, after a session of 129 days, the longest on record. Will the people ever get one hundredth part of value received for the $125,000 that it has cost?

Both Houses have amended the change of venue law by adding the following words to the second sub-section of section 1: "And the attorney for the Commonwealth shall have the right to offer and file counter affidavits made by persons of such credibility and knowledge as is required on the part of the witnesses for the defendant, and the court may in its discretion hear other testimony on either side either written or oral, and shall grant or refuse the application according to the weight of the testimony."

"The red bristled boar from the north country," is the sweet appellation applied by the member of Owen to Tilden, the red-headed member of the Whipp's Lottery bill the Danville Advocate says: "We cannot understand this thing; and we are humiliated when we feel that a blot has thus been placed upon the fair escutcheon of our Commonwealth by legislative action and Executive sanction."

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.
—It is said that Tilden has the New Hampshire delegation.
—It is likely that Congress will adjourn by the 30th of this month.
—Col. Thos. A. Scott, after being President of the Pennsylvania R. R. for six years, has resigned.

—Ben Deering will hereafter issue his excellent Gazette weekly, instead of semi-weekly as formerly.
—A bicyclist made a hundred miles at New Castle this week in 6 hours, 22 minutes and 27 seconds.
—Wednesday, Tennessee instructed for Grant, Wisconsin for Washburne, and Mississippi for Sherman.

—Congress has passed a bill appropriating $30,000 to purchase a site and build a Marine Hospital at Memphis.
—The thirty-third annual convocation of Knights Templars will convene at Masonic Temple, Louisville, on the 12th of May.

—The Spencer Courier has been resurrected by G. H. Mathis and J. W. Crutcher, and we hope it has come to stay this time.
—The Governor of Pennsylvania, unwilling that the recently legislative bodies should suffer their sentence, has pardoned them.

—Forty-six thousand immigrants arrived at New York last month, the greatest number ever known for the same length of time.
—Hon. Joseph Segar, ex member of Congress from Virginia, dropped dead on a steamer en route from Norfolk to Washington Friday last.

The Examiner, published at London, Ky., by C. G. Blakey & J. C. McKee, is a new little sheet, and bids fair to grow into favor and importance.
—South Carolina Republicans instructed for Grant, California for Blaine, and Arkansas for Grant. The latter will be nominated at Chicago on the first ballot.

—The Georgia Court of Appeals has refused a new trial to Cox, who murdered Alston, and he goes to the Penitentiary for life without a ray of hope for a pardon.
—Judge Wm. Becker, of the Winchester Democrat, R. H. Stanton, of Mayville, and H. B. Lyons, of Edinville, have been appointed the Penitentiary Commissioners.

—An appropriation of $50,000 is asked for to entertain the King of Siam when he comes over this year at the invitation of Grant. This is much too much sugar for a cent.
—The Yonon says that there are in the Lower House of the General Assembly 31 farmers, 21 lawyers, 8 physicians, 9 merchants, 4 mechanics, and 2 manufacturers; total, 100.

—The Union Express Company, which was about to be warred out of existence by the Adams Express Company, has dissolved, and hereafter the Louisville & Nashville will be its own express business.
—Mrs. Sarah Irwin Mattingly, the talented wife of Dr. C. P. Mattingly, of Bardonia, will begin the publication of the Kentucky Literary Magazine in June. It will be issued monthly, and sold at $3 per annum.

—A number of prominent Republicans held anti-Grant meeting in Louisville Tuesday night. Resolutions were adopted declaring Grant the weakest man in the party, and condemning his previous administration.
—The Southern Railroad Trustees have settled with R. G. Huston & Co. by giving them $115,000 more than the final estimate. This was for extra work. The total amount received by them for all claims was $1,710,264.74.

—John P. Flanagan, of Marion, committed suicide last Sunday by drowning in Rolling Fork. The loss of a debt caused a derangement of his mind, and on one occasion he killed his own child and seriously wounded another.
—The Attorney General has delivered his opinion that national banks may take up all their bonds deposited in the Treasury as security for their note circulation down to the limit of $50,000, substituting therefor legal tender notes.

—The Supreme Court of Virginia has declared that the coupons attached to the State bonds are receivable for taxes, and that the provisions of Mr. McCullough's bill relating thereto are valid. This is a victory for the debt payers.
—The Covington Commonwealth very pertinently suggests that it is in extremely bad taste for Judge Becker, of the Winchester Democrat, and of counsel for Judge Hargis, to attempt to forestall the judgment of the Court in behalf of his client.

—Robbers entered the Citizens' Bank of Paris on Sunday night and stole therefrom $20,000 worth of money and bonds. Entrance was effected through the cellar of an adjoining house, and being inside the robbers had but little difficulty in getting into the brick vault. No clue.

—The Lebanon bar, in view of the approaching retirement of Judge R. J. Breckinridge from the bench, has passed resolutions highly eulogistic of his faithfulness and impartiality as a judge, and his eminent worth as an honorable gentleman. Judge B. is said, will remove from Danville to Springfield, this fall.

—The National House has passed Mr. Carlisle's bill to amend the revenue laws so as to abolish the five per cent interest per annum on the additional two years of the bonding period, and to fix an allowance of one to seven and one half gallons for outage, and the exemption of holders of whisky in bond from the payment of the tax laid upon it.

—Gov. Blackburn has appointed Col. Chas. H. Rochester, of Stanford, J. F. Johnston, of Lexington, and Judge Charles E. Kincaid Railroad Commissioners to hold the office two years. Col. Rochester will represent the railroad interests, Johnston the mercantile and mining, and Judge Kincaid the agricultural interests. These are regarded as very excellent appointments.

—A Washington dispatch says that Representatives Tom Turner and Phil Thompson have done nobly in securing an appropriation for the Kentucky river of $210,000, and for the Big Sandy of $50,000. Altogether this is more than $100,000 more than the estimate of the engineers. The Louisville and Portland Canal gets the lion's share of the appropriation, estimated to be about $60,000. The Indiana chute gets an appropriation of $25,000.

—Last fall a man named Phillips killed one Hutchinson in the presence of a Mr. Powell. The case was a very aggravated one of murder, and Phillips offered Powell a large sum to leave the country. He refused to do so, and it is said that Phillips threatened to kill him if he did not. The trial of Phillips was held on Monday, and on the Thursday night previous a body of masked men, one of whom Mrs. Powell recognized as Phillips, went to Powell's house to lynch him, but he fled thence manfully, knocking down three of them with axe and getting hold of a pistol, shot and killed one of them who proved to be John Will Smith, of Pulaski. Three of the men have been identified and are now in jail in Wayne county, the locality of the deed.

BOYLE COUNTY.

Danville.

—Duprez and Benedict's Minstrels are advertised for an entertainment at James' Hall, Thursday night, May 20.

—Jas. S. Christian, present incumbent, is a candidate for re-election to the office of Circuit Clerk, and will doubtless meet with no serious opposition.

—Miss Emma Chenault visited Miss Mary Cecil last week. John A. Heron and Cecil Dunlap have been appointed Censorship examiners for Gen. F. V.

—The day of the Master, with very few exceptions, is strictly observed in Danville. A few murmurs are heard, but principally from persons who are more rigid in criticism than morality.

—The regular examination of the Senior Class of Centre College began on Wednesday, and it may require months for them to tell all they know. The most dangerous competition is over a promised bouquet of lilac—blazes.

—Under the new bill changing the Judicial Districts and time of holding Courts the terms of the Boyle Circuit Court will commence on the 3d Monday in February and continue 24 days, and on 3d Monday in September and continue 12 days.

—The Gilcher Bros. have enlarged and extended their hotel building until, now it presents as elegant an appearance as any hotel in the State outside of the cities. It is an entirely new three story brick, 115 feet front by 105, and can accommodate 200 people. Four store rooms and an office take up the lower floor.

MARRIAGES.—Mr. G. T. Baker to Miss Nannie S. Dunn. T. A. Campbell to Miss Lucy J. Moberly. Invitations are out for the marriage of Richard D. Bruce to Miss Carrie M. Harlan, on the 13th inst., and at the same time and place a reception will be given to Mr. Jay Harlan and bride, (Miss Annie Harlan, of Missouri).

DEATHS.—At the Citizens' House, on Sunday evening, Frank C. Briggs, of Consumption. Deceased was 29 years old, and came to Danville in 1877 from Farmington, Maine, his former home. After brief services by Rev. Mr. Stevenson, on Tuesday, his remains, accompanied by his aged mother, were taken to Maine for interment. In this county, on Friday last, Miss Amanda Ennis, aged 56 years.

ROCKCASTLE.

Mr. Vernon.

—Eld. J. L. Allen, of Danville, will preach at the Christian Church here next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.
—The report that Pat Rogers had killed the deputy Sheriff of Jackson county turned out to be false. I got my information from a Richmond dispatch in the Cincinnati Enquirer.

—The King of Terrors has been busy in his devastating work since my last report. Last Friday Mrs. Mollie Butler, a most estimable Christian lady, wife of Mr. Flea Butler, died of Consumption. Sunday morning Mr. Ad Myers, a highly respected citizen, died of the same dread disease at the residence of M. J. Cook.

PERSONAL.—Judge W. L. Brown and J. T. Canfar, County Judge and County Attorney of Laurel county, were in town Tuesday. W. H. Albright will not be elected Sheriff without opposition. Mr. G. A. Parker is announced as a candidate for that office. Miss Helen Conn, of Broadhead, is visiting relatives here. Mr. Sam Ward, of Garrard, is in town.

Circuit Court is still in session, and will probably not conclude its labors before Saturday. No business was transacted Monday. Tuesday the evidence in the case of the Commonwealth vs. J. C. Mize began, and was completed at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The jury received the instructions of the Court and the case was submitted to them without argument. After a deliberation of three minutes they returned a verdict of not guilty. The defendant after listening to a few words of the most excellent advice from Judge Randall, was discharged. A number of lines for carrying pistols, selling whisky, &c., have been imposed since my last report. When the case of the Commonwealth vs. Robert Randall, for murder, was called Tuesday, Judge Randall being a relative of the defendant retired from the bench, and an election for special Judge was held which resulted in the selection of Hon. Granville Pearl. The case was continued to the next term, and the prisoner allowed bail in the sum of $1500 in default of which he was committed to jail. W. A. Owens and W. A. McKinney, indicted for murder at the present term, were refused bail and remanded to jail. On Wednesday the case of the Commonwealth vs. Emmett Stoddard and J. J. Thompson, for the murder of Jim Bethuram was called. The plaintiff announced ready, and the defendants filed affidavits for a continuance, because of the absence of important witnesses. The Court granted a continuance to the next term, and the bonds of the defendants were resupplied. The Grand Jury have been getting down to their work, and on Wednesday had reported 68 indictments, 7 for felonies and 61 for misdemeanors. The felonies are distributed as follows: Four for murder, 1 for manslaughter, 1 for rape, 1 for grand larceny, and 1 for concealing a bastard child. The case against W. A. McKinney, for murder, is set for Thursday morning and is likely to be tried.

At a meeting of the attorneys and officers of the Rockcastle Circuit Court in the Court-house Monday morning, May 3, 1880, on motion of W. O. Bradley, Judge W. H. Randall was called to the chair and W. M. Fish appointed Secretary. The Chairman stated that the object of the meeting was to take some action regarding the death of Charles Kirtley. The following were appointed a Committee on resolutions: Granville Pearl, W. O. Bradley, John Dishman, B. F. Holman, J. K. McClary and Sam. M. Burdett. The Committee reported as follows:

Whereas, It has pleased the Supreme Ruler of the Universe to call home Charles Kirtley, for many years a member of this bar, therefore be it Resolved, 1st, By the death of Charles Kirtley our profession has been deprived of one of its most useful and honest & moral men.

2nd, By his death has the State likewise lost a good citizen, one who knew and dared to do the right in all things. Wherever the intelligence of his death is conveyed it will awaken sincere regret in the hearts of those who knew him.

3rd, While we mourn his demise we will perpetuate his memory and strive to imitate his example by cultivating that high sense of honor, that contempt for unfair ends and measures which was characteristic of the deceased.

4th, The family and relatives of Mr. Kirtley have our earnest sympathy in their sad bereavement.

5th, We will attend the funeral of Mr. Kirtley in a body.

6th, The Clerk will spread these resolutions on the Order Books of this Court. He will present a copy to the family of the deceased, and will also furnish a copy to the INTERIOR JOURNAL, the London Democrat and Mountain Echo, with a request for their publication.

Sam. M. Burdett moved the adoption of the resolutions, and paid a brief tribute to the life and character of the deceased. He was followed by Hon. W. O. Bradley who seconded the motion to adopt the resolutions, and then proceeded in eloquent and fitting terms to pay a eulogy to the memory and exalted virtue of Mr. Kirtley. Other addresses were made by Judge Pearl, John K. McClary and R. M. Bradley. The resolutions were then adopted unanimously by a rising vote. On motion the meeting adjourned.

W. M. FISH, Secretary.

DEATH.—At the residence of his niece, Mrs. Kirtley, in this place, Sunday, May 2nd, 1880, Charles Kirtley, aged 61 years. This announcement will awaken sorrow in many hearts. It will be a surprise, too, because his death was sudden and unexpected. Last week Charles Kirtley was in the Court-house every day, working for his clients faithfully, as he had ever worked. Saturday afternoon, he presided as special judge in the absence of Judge Randall, receiving the report of the Grand Jury. When he left the Court-house he went immediately to his room and to bed. A physician, Dr. W. P. McKee, was summoned, who went and administered some medicines. Mr. Kirtley replied and by ten o'clock was unconscious. He remained so up to his death which occurred at half past two o'clock next day. Dr. McKee says that his death was the result of a simple giving way of the vital forces. The wheels of life had made their allotted number of revolutions. The chord which bound soul and body together parted suddenly and his spirit took its flight to another world. Charles Kirtley was born in this county in the year 1819. He has always lived here, and was well known in Southeastern Kentucky. He was in many respects a most remarkable man. Of humble parentage, and with little or no outside help, he lifted himself into prominence by application and energy. Though a dwarf physically he towered intellectually above most of the lawyers of his district. He was an honest lawyer, and devoted himself to that profession from the time of obtaining his license, which was shortly after he reached his majority, until his death. He was, also, a minister of the Gospel, and was a zealous and fervent advocate of his Master's cause. In 1861, while traveling in Missouri, he preached in many of the larger towns, and was greeted with the largest audiences ever seen in the State. He was never married. For years he had made his home with his nieces, Mrs. Dragg and Miss Annie Kirtley. They were devoted to him and are almost heart-broken over his death. He was a member of the Christian Church, a prominent Mason and an Odd Fellow. Ten years before his death he ceased to be entered on the records of the Masonic Lodge at this place a request that he be buried with its honors. Accordingly at four o'clock Monday afternoon his interment took place with the ceremonies of that order in the presence of the largest crowd ever seen at a burial in this place. A great and good man has gone from among us. His brethren of the bar will miss him, as will his brethren in Christ. The little boys and girls whose particular favorite he was will sadly miss him. Let us all imitate his goodness and we shall meet him and greet him in the glad beyond. May the earthrest lightly on him, and may God sustain his sorrowing relatives in their sad affliction.

LOCAL MATTERS.

FRESH lot of Flowers at Jas. T. Carson's.

GENUINE German Millet Seed at Geo. D. Wearen's.

ROBERT POTATOES—At 50 cents per bushel. Geo. D. Wearen.

EVERY farmer should have one of J. W. Waller's Improved Harrows.

GARDEN PLANTS—Of every variety for sale cheap by A. G. Pennington.

Scales.—Mr. T. T. Davies is putting up, near the depot, an extra large set of Horse Scales.

The stone for the foundation of the Hall is being hauled to the ground by Mr. D. W. Vandever. Let the people rejoice.

VEGETABLES.—New Cabbages, new Potatoes, Beans, Peas, Radishes, Onions, Asparagus, etc., to arrive Saturday. George D. Wearen.

A SPECIAL TERM—Of the Circuit Court is set for the 31st Monday in June for the trial of Ansil and Gillis Frederick for the murder of Thomas Hatfield.

ATTENTION HORSE MEN.—Pole-Evil and Fistula cured for $5; also any horse driven in harness or gaited to the saddle by F. D. Albright, Stanford, Ky. 20-3m.

CURE FOR CORNS.—A neat fitting boot or shoe is indispensable to a nice gait, but if you would have no other beauties but those for ever, call on L. A. Willson, Stanford. His work is the only sure cure for corns.

To THE PEX.—Sheriff S. H. Baughman, with D. B. Edmiston as guard, took the three convicts sentenced at the late term of the Court to the Penitentiary, via Danville, Wednesday. The names of the men are Tom Cain, who goes up for five years, Jos. Cloyd, two years, and Robt Smith, five years.

RECOMMENDATIONS.—The Stanford bar gave Commonwealth's Attorney, George Denny, Jr., a recommendation last week, in view of the near approach of his retirement to private life. It was suggested that a similar paper be gotten up for Judge Owsley, since Mr. Alcorn is to supersede him as Judge, but the suggestion was not carried into effect.

AN IMMEASURABLE.—It has not been fifteen years since all the goods in Stanford, put into one house, would not be considered an extra large stock for either one of several houses now doing business here. The Hayden Brothers, for instance, carry an average stock of more than all combined a decade and a half ago. The fact is that a sterling house does an annual business reaching far up into the thousands, and their trade is on the increase all the time. We advise our readers to call on the Haydens when they want to buy the best of goods.

COMPLAIN NO MORE.—The farmer may now rest assured that the Spring rains are over, and the fruit and grain crops safe from untimely frosts, and the coming harvest gives promise of unprecedented yield. Therefore complain no more. Be generous, be thankful, and you will be happy. "How shall I be generous?" says one. "It is easy enough. Supply your family and yourself with neat and pretty Spring and Summer clothing, dress goods, boots, shoes, a new hat, etc., such as you can find nowhere else that are either better, cheaper or more stylish than those at Hayden Brothers.

TOWN HALL.—The building Committee opened a number of bids on Saturday evening last, for the erection of the Town Hall. The lowest was by R. H. Wearen, of Stanford, and was for $4,931, and to him the work will be awarded. This was considerably over the amount that the stockholders had calculated on, but a general determination seemed to prevail that the Hall should be built, and that it be allowed to fall through this time. The Town Trustees were called on and they promptly raised their subscription to $1,000. This was eminently proper since the town is bound to make on the Hall by license, if all the other stockholders lose, but it is not likely that anybody will lose. A small amount more of subscription is needed and we trust our enterprising citizens will pony up, but whether they do or not the Hall is a fixed fact and will be built just so soon as the ground owners build their store-rooms.

A NERVOUS WOMAN SHOT.—Saturday night about 12 o'clock a shot rang out on the fifth story of Mackville—the "Hell's half acre" of Stanford—and in a few moments Lucy Jones, colored, was found with a bullet hole in her forehead. She was removed to Johnson Moran's and Drs. Brown and Craig called. They found that the ball had struck the forehead sideways, and after making the skull into the brain had come out an inch or so from the point of entrance. They at once performed the operation known as trephining, taking out, besides a piece of the skull as large as a quarter of a dollar, another piece one-half inch in length, which was entirely imbedded in the brain, which substance was oozing out of the ghastly wound. Her face is badly powder burnt, showing that the pistol was in close proximity to her. Early next morning Sam Cosby, a train hand who was last seen with her, was arrested on suspicion. He denied being the guilty party, but stated that Alex Marshall, another train hand, was the one who fired the shot. On this statement Marshall was also arrested, and both men lodged in jail. The case was called on Monday but postponed till today to await developments. Tuesday, in company with Dr. Craig and Judge Brown, we went to the room in which the woman was lying, and at Judge Brown's direction took down the following: Judge B.—"Lucy, do you think you will get well?" "I don't know." "Who shot you?" "Alex Marshall." "When?" "Saturday night at 12 o'clock." "Who was with you at the time?" "Nellie Cowan." "Was anybody with Alex?" "Yes, Sam Cosby." "Where were you?" "In Tim Butcher's yard." "Where was Alex?" "He was on the other side of the fence." "What did he shoot you for?" "A nickle's worth of candy that he got from Parson's saloon." "Why was it that he shot you for the candy?" "Here he was, which was very weak, seemed to fall her, and a state was held to her when she wrote in answer to the same question repeated. "He wanted me to go off with him but I wouldn't." This statement is entirely corroborated by Sam Cosby, and if the woman dies, as she no doubt will, Alex Marshall is as good for the gallows as if he were now pulling hemp. LATER.—The woman has concluded that she cannot live, and has signed a paper containing the above, thereby making it legal evidence against Marshall.

WANTED.—Agents to solicit for the Kentucky Baptist Assurance Association, of Stanford. Terms very liberal. Address, A. R. Penny, Secretary, Stanford, Ky.

MARSH.—Every member of Lodge No. 90, A. Y. M., is requested to attend the regular monthly meeting next Monday night to consider business of great importance.

KIND.—A majority of the magistrates have agreed to allow Mrs. Truchent to use the Court-house for the Commencement Exercises, for which her friends are daily thankful. Such a favor will not be asked again, for next year the handsome new Hall will be at her disposal.

WAR CLAIMS.—The following war claims have been allowed by Congress: Lincoln—Asenath Johnson, administrator of Wm. Johnson, $350; Reuben Williams, $93.50; Pulaski—John P. Nunnally, $831; Rockcastle—Wm. Taylor, administrator of Preston Taylor, deceased, $192.83; Lavina Whitehead, administratrix of Newton Whitehead, deceased, $148.20.

DISMISSED.—In our Court proceedings last week, we mentioned that Allen Beazley, Jr., had been indicted by the Grand Jury. This was the case, and Mr. Beazley, father of the young man, and a gentleman of known integrity and honor, was greatly annoyed by it. He procured the services of Col. Welch, who went to see Mr. and Mrs. Miller, the indicting witnesses, and from them got a statement that they had no desire or intention of prosecuting the case, as they did not think there was anything in it, but that they had been forced to do what they had done. On reading the statement Judge Denny promptly dismissed the indictment. It is supposed that the whole matter originated from spite, not by Mr. and Mrs. Miller, but by outside parties.

AN IMPROBATION.—By the present running of the trains the Southern bound train on the C. & S. R. leaves Danville Junction some fifteen minutes before the Louisville train on the L. & N. reaches there, thereby causing a delay of twenty-four hours on mails for all points on the C. & S. R. Thus a paper mailed to McKinney Station, just eight miles from here, takes two and sometimes three or four days to reach its destination. The arrangement is an abominable imposition, but we are determined that our patrons in the West-End and along the C. & S. R. shall not suffer by it, so until a change is made in the trains we will deliver, at our own expense, at McKinney Station all papers for points in Pulaski, Wayne and Casey on the morning of its publication, and give the Hamiltonians the benefit of its perusal for breakfast.

SUSPICIOUS.—Last Saturday, a middle aged woman, well dressed, after trying in vain at the banks to procure the money on a draft drawn by S. S. Parker, Cashier of the Farmers' National Bank, Richmond, on the National Park Bank of New York, for $7.15 in favor of Mrs. H. E. Taylor, came to our office and proposed to subscribe for the INTERIOR JOURNAL if we would give her the difference between her paper's subscription and the amount of her draft, which she endorsed in a large hand, signing her name Mrs. H. E. Taylor. We refused to cash her paper until she could identify her herself, whereat she flew into a rage and treated us to some not very complimentary observations. Before this, however, she told us that she had been living at the Junction for over a year. That night she registered as Mrs. Nettie Buford, and claimed that she was from Shelbyville. She had been, she said, to Garrard, and after some land that she owned there. Her actions were very strange, and her contradictory statements induced the belief that she was either a fraud or a lunatic. Can any body tell us who she is?

MARRIAGES.

—OVERTON.—At Crab Orchard yesterday, Wm. L. Overton to Miss Mary C. Moore, a sweet sixteen.

—COBURN.—BERRY.—On the 2d of May, at the residence of H. Blankenship, Jacob Coburn to Mrs. Catharine Berry. Both have been married before.

—KELLEY.—COSBY.—At the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. J. Cosby, on the 5th, J. F. Kelley to Miss Maggie M. Cosby. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Bogle, in the presence of a number of friends. Miss Cosby is possessed of many charms of mind and body, and Mr. Kelley is to be congratulated on securing such a prize.

RELIGIOUS.

—Services will hereafter commence at the Christian Church at 10 1/2 Sunday mornings.

—Rev. J. A. Bogle is expected to preach at McKinney Station on Sunday, the 9th, at 3 o'clock P. M.

—The members of the Ashland Presbyterian Church contributed $13.55 each to benevolent purposes during the year just closed.

—Pagan Bog Ingersoll has the temerity to lecture in Cincinnati on "What Must We Do To Be Saved," while the Northern Methodist Conference is in session.

—The Presbyterian Sunday School is in a most flourishing condition. There are 80 old scholars present last Sunday, three-fourths of whom were under 14 years of age.

—Rev. J. M. Bruce will preach at Mt. Salem on the 3d Saturday and Sunday in this month. He will then formally decide whether or not he will accept the call of this church.

—The Southern Baptist Convention met at Lexington yesterday with over 700 delegates. Those who have gone from here are Mrs. Leo Hayden, Mrs. Col. C. H. Rochester, Mrs. J. M. Phillips, Mrs. A. H. Penny, Miss Sallie Penny, Miss Lillie McClary and Mr. J. R. McClary.

—We were shown by Mrs. Kate Bailey, President of the Woman's Christian Aid Society, one of the handsomest silk quilts we have ever seen. The center is of velvet beautifully embroidered. It was made by the Society and is worth every cent of $25, though but $12 had been offered for it at last auction.

—The Bishop's address to the Northern Methodist General Conference, now being held in Cincinnati, shows that the body represents a membership of 1,700,000, to whom the gospel is preached by 11,036 travelling and 12,775 local preachers. In the last four years 512 preachers and 78,720 members have died.

—Miss Addie Purnell, Mrs. Sallie A. Anthony and Miss Eva Sully entertained the members of the Woman's Missionary Society Sunday afternoon, with interesting essays and selections, while Miss Georgia Proctor and Annie Roberts furnished some excellent duets. Misses Gu Wilson, Annie Roberts and Bettie Parsons are on the program for the next month's meeting.

—Speaking of the Northern Methodist General Conference in session at Cincinnati, a writer says that there is no exhibition of caste in the body. Throughout the assembly is a considerably sprinkling of colored ministers, and their white brethren beside them seem to enjoy their association as much as they do that of their white friends, and their hand-shakings and greetings are apparently whole-souled as if as though they had sprung from the same son of Noah.

—Eld. Jos. Ballou's sermon last Sunday was one of the best we have ever heard him preach, and, although a little disingenuous, was a very strong argument for Christians to aid to their fullest ability the project to build a new church. The worshippers of the Gods—Mammon, Fame and Inches, and the Goddess Fashion—saw no sacrifice either of money or comfort to please them, and the worshippers of the meek and lowly Jesus will, if they are in earnest, be just as liberal for His sake, out of the means that God has given them.

Bailey appears to-morrow in the mile dash.

—PARCE CORNER DAX.—The attendance at Parke Monday was less than the average of the year. There were from 200 to 250 cattle on the market with light demand, and prices ranging from 2 1/2 to 4c. No mules offered. The supply of common hogs was large, with prices ranging from $20 to $100. The general tone of the day was that of depression.

—COUNTY COURT DAY.—Owing to the splendid farming weather but a small crowd attended Court here Monday, and consequently a very small amount of business of any kind was transacted. The auctioneers report about 150 head of fair young cattle on the market. Capt. H. T. Bush says there were but few bidders and no demand. Best yearlings sold at $20 to $25 and calves at $10 to $20. No mules or hogs offered.

LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Crab Orchard.

—A social hop at the Harris House was enjoyed by a few couples last Friday evening. Music by the C. O. orchestra.

—Sweet William has the blues since the departure of Crocus. Rumor says that he will take unto himself a helpmeet next month.

—Mr. Joe Severeance, from your town, honored the Sunday school with a short address last Sunday. Rev. Burr did not fill his appointment. Preaching at Peach-crook took away our village young people Sunday.

—The many friends of John Singleton will be pained to hear how fast he is sinking. He is, now, just alive. Mrs. John Buchanan is slowly improving. She is terribly afflicted with the Rheumatism. The general health of the community is much better.

—The ladies of the Christian Church have organized a Sewing Society to meet Wednesday at the different residences of the members, at 4 o'clock. The new carpet is being made this week. The inside of the church is to be remodelled, and the blinds are expected daily. Rev. Livingston will be welcomed Sunday by a full house.

—There is a good prospect for village growth the ensuing season. Kennedy & Saunders will open the coming week a large provision store on Main street, in Mrs. Wells' property. Some changes in the internal arrangements are being made. Dr. Delaney Egbert has rented the vacant store-house of Burch & Gilkerson, and will be in splendid shape for a rushing trade next week. Mrs. Steger will open out her millinery in the store-room formerly occupied by Dr. Egbert. We hear of other stores likely to be started very soon.

—Messrs. Bob and Jim Gentry, the handsome editor of the Enterprise, Woody Dunlap, and Sam Walton were the strangers in attendance at the picnic. The ladies were Mrs. B. F. Burdett and Mrs. Arnold. Our belles, Misses Evans, accompanied by the gallant beaux of Lancaster, Dr. Burnside and Lear, returned home Friday much pleased with their trip. Miss Lettie Shelby, a lovely blonde, is recuperating at the Crab Orchard Springs. Mr. I. S. Travis returned from the city on Sunday. Mrs. Tarrant has purchased an elegant piano from Baldwin & Co. It arrived Saturday.

—The picnic, announced for last Saturday, was a charming occasion and a grand success. Every amusement imaginable was indulged in. Only one speaker present. Court being in session, the Stanford orators, that were expected to speak, vent many regrets for their non-appearance. The Crab Orchard land favored the public with beautiful places on the green. The three tables were continually supplied with everything that is palatable to the taste. "It is May who becoms the summer and the whole world is quickened, and kindled, and adorned, wraps herself in robes and smiles away her life in the luxurious lap of June."

—Engleman's Mill.

—Fox squirrels are getting numerous in this vicinity.

—Who can be the matter? We have not seen but one candidate for a week.

—The singing club will meet at Mr. S. O. Baughman's Saturday evening next.

—Although we have had some pretty heavy frosts the peaches are not all killed yet.

—Fishing tackle of all kinds can be bought now at a good deal less than cost in this vicinity.

—Sheep shearing is the chief employment of the farmers now. Corn planting is about over.

—Mr. R. C. Engleman has been appointed general agent for the improved Wilson Sewing Machine.

—Mule colts are in demand. There have been several buyers in this neighborhood offering good prices.

STRANGE ROMANCE.

"How happens it, Tom, that you never married?" asked Harry Stanhope of his friend, Tom Meredith, as the two sauntered along Broadway one fine spring morning.

"Because I could never find any woman who would have me, I suppose," answered Tom, laughingly. "No use to tell me that, old fellow," rejoined Harry. "Girls are not so foolish as to decline a good looking man like you, with plenty of money; yet here you are nearly thirty years old, and no more prospect of settling than you had ten years ago. Now if it were me, why, the case is very different. A doctor just struggling into practice is scarcely considered eligible by the match-making mammas, to say nothing of their worldly-wise daughters; but they are all ready and eager to smile upon you, and you might as well make your choice."

"Thank you," answered Tom, still laughing; when I can find a young lady who can come up to my grandmother's standard of domestic virtues, I will invite her to become Mrs. Thomas Meredith."

"And what was your grandmother's peculiar doctrine on the subject?" asked Harry.

"I presume she had more than one," said Tom, "but this she particularly impressed upon my mind: 'Always look at a woman's dish towels,' she would remark with some solemnity."

"No matter how well she plays the piano or sings, or how many languages she can speak; never marry unless you see that she uses soft, dry towels, and plenty of them, when she wipes her dishes. Be sure that a girl who uses soiled or wet dish towels does not know enough to be the wife of an honest man."

Harry laughed at this definition of house-wifely knowledge, but presently he said, in a serious tone:

"There is considerable truth in the old lady's ideas after all, but I don't quite understand how, in these days, you can apply the test. Most young ladies that we know have perhaps never seen a dish towel. Now I think of it, I promised to introduce you to my cousins. There are three of them, all bright pretty girls, though I think it doubtful whether they would fulfill your grandmother's requirements as a wife. Still, you may find them pleasant acquaintances, and if you like we will go there now."

"Agreed," responded Tom, and the two friends soon found themselves in the parlor of Mrs. Renshaw, Harry's aunt.

The young ladies were all at home, and, as Harry had said, were bright, pretty girls. Ida, the eldest, was a tall, queenly brunette, whose magnificent dark eyes and abundant raven tresses seemed to compel universal admiration, though she had a powerful rival in Adele, the second daughter, whose delicate beauty showed to fresh advantage beside her more brilliant sister. The two were acknowledged belles in their own circle, and few who knew them ever paused to give a second glance to their younger sister, little Violet. As shy and shrinking as her floral namesake, she avoided the gay assemblage in which her sister loved to shine, and passed her time pleasantly and peacefully with her books, her music and her flowers. She was not present when Harry and his friend entered; but when her cousin, with whom she seemed a great favorite, asked expressly for her, Miss Adele desired the servant to call her. Tom, who was conversing with Ida, did not notice her entrance till aroused by Harry's voice saying:

"Mr. Meredith, let me introduce you to my cousin, Miss Violet Renshaw."

And turning quickly, he was surprised at the sight of the tiny creature, so unlike her elder sister. There was nothing magnificent, and little that could be strictly termed beautiful in the almost childish figure, but there was something indescribably winning in the clear, gray eyes, and in the rich chestnut curls that clustered about the broad, low brow.

Tom had little time for observation, however, as Ida and Adele claimed all his attention, while Harry monopolized Violet in a frank, brotherly way, quite unlike his more formal and ceremonious manner with the elder sisters.

"Well, what do you think of my three cousins?" was Harry's natural question, when he and Tom were once more in the street.

"I can only express my admiration by saying that I wish it were possible to divide myself into three separate and distinct individuals, that I might offer each of the fair enslavers a hand and a heart," replied Tom, with much solemnity.

"What! without even waiting to discover whether their dish towels are in proper order?" retorted his friend. Tom laughed.

"I have a presentiment that I shall forget my revered grandmother's advice until it is too late, when the important event of meeting my fate shall arrive."

"And then remember it of the rest of your life, I suppose," observed

Harry, "the principle of 'marrying in haste and repenting at leisure.' Well, I hope my fair cousins will not be the cause of such a catastrophe. But I must leave you here, as I have a patient in this house. And he hastily ran up the steps.

Left to himself, Tom sauntered slowly along, thinking of the young ladies whom he had just seen. It must be confessed that little Violet occupied but a very small portion of his thoughts, which were filled with Ida and Adele.

"But I doubt if either of them ever saw a dish towel," was his concluding reflection as he reached his boarding house.

Weeks passed on. Tom was devoted in his attentions to the Misses Renshaw. Rumor had assigned him first to Ida, then to Adele, and waited with impatience for the time when the engagement should be publicly announced.

Meanwhile, almost every day brought some good and sufficient excuse for him to call at Mrs. Renshaw's pleasant house; a new poem, the latest song, an invitation for a drive, or a plan for an excursion. Of Violet he saw less than of the other sisters, although they were very friendly, and he treated her with the same brotherly frankness as Harry.

One lovely June morning he presented himself at Mrs. Renshaw's at quite an early hour, intending to invite the three sisters to pass the beautiful summer day in a long country drive. He noticed that there was some delay in answering his ring, which was not usually the case with Mrs. Renshaw's well-trained servants; but at length he heard a light foot step, and in another moment the door was opened by Violet. She had a broom in her hand, and a dusting cap covered her bright curls; but she bade him good morning with as much cordiality as usual, and invited him to enter, adding:

"Please walk into the dining-room, for I am just sweeping the parlors."

Secretly wondering, Tom obeyed. As he turned the handle of the dining-room door. There was a sudden rush, a hasty bang of a door, and a hurried exclamation of "Oh, Violet, how could you!" and he found himself in the presence of the fair Adele, although for a moment he scarcely recognized her in the slovenly dressed girl; with disheveled hair, who stood by the breakfast table dabbling the cups and saucers in some greasy water, and wiping them on a towel, which, to say the least, was far from being spotlessly clean. She colored, and with some confusion said:

"Ah, good morning, Mr. Meredith. So you have come to find us all at work this morning. It happens that we have for our servants a brother and two sisters. They received this morning the news of their mother's dangerous illness, and mamma at once gave them permission to go home. We supposed we could get a woman who sometimes does extra work for us, but she was engaged for the day; so we are obliged to do the best we can ourselves. I assure you," she continued, with a little laugh, which Tom had often thought pretty and engaging, but which now sounded false and affected, "that I am by no means accustomed to such work, nor have I any desire to become so."

"Can you not allow me to assist you?" asked Tom, politely. "I was brought up on a farm, and have often washed dishes and made myself generally useful in the kitchen."

"You!" exclaimed Adele, in such astonished tones that Tom could not but laugh.

"Yes, certainly; why not?" asked Tom. "Oh, I don't know—only I thought you never did anything," stammered Adele; then, endeavoring to seem at ease, she said, "Yes, if you will help, please take this tea kettle into the kitchen and set it on the stove."

Tom seized the kettle, and, throwing open the door leading to the kitchen, was crossing the room toward the stove when his progress was arrested by the sudden appearance of Ida from a store room beyond. If Adele looked slovenly and disheveled, what shall be said of Ida? An old dress, dirty and torn, slippers run down at the heel and burst out at the sides, no collar or ruffle, very little hair, instead of the magnificent tresses he had so often admired, and what there was hanging uncombed about her face—no wonder Tom started in blank astonishment.

A heavy frown took the place of the usual smile, as she curtly bade him good morning. Tom muttered an apology for intrusion as he deposited his burden on the stove, and turned to retrace his steps just as Violet entered the dining room. She did not see him, but addressing Ida, said:

"Run away, now, Ida dear, and dress, before the callers come for you. I have already sent Adele up stairs, and will finish the dishes, now that I have done my sweeping."

"You have been long enough about it," I hope," muttered Ida, ungraciously, but nevertheless availing herself of her sister's offer with much alacrity. "Here are the dish towels, Violet," she said, extending several greasy, blackened articles to the young girl.

Tom had been meditating an escape; not an easy affair, as the sisters stood directly in his path; but at the word dish towels he involuntarily stopped and glanced around.

"No wonder my grandmother cautioned me," was his first thought as he looked at the towels, and he hastily approved the look of disgust which crossed Violet's face as she laid them aside, and opening a drawer, she took from it a plentiful supply, soft, dry and clean.

Ida and Adele had both disappeared, and Tom ventured to renew his offer of assistance to Violet, who started a little, as she for the first time noticed his presence. But she recovered her composure at once, and quietly answered, as she deftly filled the dish pan with clean, hot water.

"No, thank you, Mr. Meredith, I shall do very well without assistance. My sisters have not left much for me to do. You had better walk into the parlor, and they will soon join you."

"No, indeed," replied Tom; "I will take myself out of the way, with apologies for my untimely intrusion, unless you will really let me be of some service. And believe me," he added earnestly, with an admiring glance at the neat little figure tripping so lightly about the kitchen, and mentally contrasting her with her two sisters, "you will make me very happy by allowing me to help you."

"Oh, very well," said Violet, smiling and blushing a little as she met his gaze. "If you are really in need of employment I will try to provide some for you. Suppose you set those dishes on the lower shelf of the closet as I wash; then I can arrange them after they are all done."

Tom obeyed, and was rewarded by being allowed to bring coal from the cellar, and do various other little errands, during which time he was noticing the neatness and dispatch with which Violet worked, and was especially observant of the clean, dry dish towels, and the skill with which, when doing them, she washed and scalded and hung them to dry.

He declined the invitation to dinner given by Mrs. Renshaw, when she came and found him assisting Violet, and made his way directly to Harry's office.

"I have made my choice at last, Harry," he announced. "It is one who would suit even my grandmother."

"Might I inquire who the fortunate damsel is?" asked Harry, laying down his book; "and how are you sure of your revered relative's approval?"

Tom told his morning's experience, concluding with:

"If she will only accept me I shall be the happiest man alive, and all owing to my dear old grandmother's advice."

Texas preachers are said to be very eccentric, and their mild unassuming, and their mild unassuming remarks and a few stories. The following narrative was told us confidentially by a slanderer:

A minister arose before a large audience, took his text and began preaching. A brisk firing of pistols began on the outside of the church.

"Brother deacon," said the minister, "I believe those fellows are casting insinuations at me. In fact, I am very nearly convinced," he continued, as a piece of plastering fell from the wall close to his head.

"I think, parson, that it refers to some one else," replied the deacon.

The minister raised a tumbler of water, and was in the act of applying it to his lips, when the glass fell, shattered by a shot.

"This is an innuendo no longer," said the minister, wiping the water from his vest. "This is what I term an unmistakable thrust. The congregation will please sing while I go out and investigate this matter. Is there another preacher in the house?"

"Yes," said a man, throwing down a stick which he had been whitening, arising and pulling at the waist of his pants like a man who had just straightened up after setting out a row of tobacco across a broad field.

"Got on an extra?"

"Unlumber."

The whittling preacher handed over a large Remington pistol, which the insulted preacher took and, drawing one from his belt, started out. After going out there was an immediate improvement in the firing business. It was more lifelike, inasmuch that the deacons sat working their fingers. After a while the minister returned, and placing an ear to the postil and a half of a nose on the pulpit, remarked: "He that hath ears to hear let him behave himself." The sermon then proceeded without interruption.

LAW.—A little stranger arrived at the residence of Mr. — yesterday, and, as is generally the case, the event created great commotion among the other little members of the household. "Where you did get him papa?" asked Kelly. "Oh," said the father, "we bought him of the doctor. The silence which reigned for a moment was broken by Jennie's piper. "Well, papa, won't Mr. Baxter hire the doctor for selling babies on Sunday?"—(Lexington Transcript.)

What a Diver Does.
"In the course of your life you have seen a great many things under water!"

"The divers who work for wrecking companies see many curious things, and have very strange experiences. I will give you one instance by way of illustration: You remember the wreck of the Atlantic, on the coast of Maine? Well, John O'Neil, the diver, was employed to raise the bodies. He made several descents, but failed to open the cabin doors. At last he succeeded. As the cabin door was opened, he saw two women fully dressed suspended in the water. The rush of water carried them toward him, and they appeared to be alive. He stepped back in horror, and it was some time before he gained sufficient courage to enter the cabin. There he found the women who were passengers on that ill-fated ship kneeling and holding each other by the hands, as if they had been engaged in prayer when the steamer went down. He then went into the smoking room. The cabin was in the wildest disorder. Chairs and tables were upside down, bottles were scattered about and the men lay on the floor as if they had perished during a drunken revel. Most of them had pistols in their hands. Scenes like this are common in sunken vessels which carry passengers down with them."

There are a good many little jokes circulating through the newspapers which none but newspaper men understand. Recently the Burlington Hawkeye spoke of a printer who struck the foreman with a towel and dashed out his brains. Most people would be at a loss to imagine where the laugh came in, but a compositor would go into convulsions after reading it, and so would any one who ever saw a towel hang in a printing office for eight months without ever being changed or washed.

Dr. Yandell, in a letter to the Louisville Medical News, speaks of a fertile female mule, now to be seen at the Jardin d'Acclimatation, Paris. She has brought forth no fewer than six foals—some by zebras, some by an ass, and some by a stallion.

What a Diver Does.

"The divers who work for wrecking companies see many curious things, and have very strange experiences. I will give you one instance by way of illustration: You remember the wreck of the Atlantic, on the coast of Maine? Well, John O'Neil, the diver, was employed to raise the bodies. He made several descents, but failed to open the cabin doors. At last he succeeded. As the cabin door was opened, he saw two women fully dressed suspended in the water. The rush of water carried them toward him, and they appeared to be alive. He stepped back in horror, and it was some time before he gained sufficient courage to enter the cabin. There he found the women who were passengers on that ill-fated ship kneeling and holding each other by the hands, as if they had been engaged in prayer when the steamer went down. He then went into the smoking room. The cabin was in the wildest disorder. Chairs and tables were upside down, bottles were scattered about and the men lay on the floor as if they had perished during a drunken revel. Most of them had pistols in their hands. Scenes like this are common in sunken vessels which carry passengers down with them."

There are a good many little jokes circulating through the newspapers which none but newspaper men understand. Recently the Burlington Hawkeye spoke of a printer who struck the foreman with a towel and dashed out his brains. Most people would be at a loss to imagine where the laugh came in, but a compositor would go into convulsions after reading it, and so would any one who ever saw a towel hang in a printing office for eight months without ever being changed or washed.

Dr. Yandell, in a letter to the Louisville Medical News, speaks of a fertile female mule, now to be seen at the Jardin d'Acclimatation, Paris. She has brought forth no fewer than six foals—some by zebras, some by an ass, and some by a stallion.
